Degree Information

ASU's Bachelor of Applied Arts and Sciences is designed to be a pathway to completing a bachelor's degree for students who have already earned an associate degree from an accredited institution of higher education. Your associate degree may be in any area, including technical (non-academic) degrees. Your specialization must be from the available options, although selecting a specialization to match your associate degree preparation will allow you to begin the required upper-division courses right away.

Specialization Areas

- Criminal Justice
- Homeland Security

Students who complete their Associates of Applied Science will have all 60 of their AAS hours transferred into the BAAS at ASU. Additional Requirements must still be met in order to complete a Bachelor's Degree at ASU. Those additional classes may also be completed at Howard before a student transfers to ASU.
