The Howard College Big Spring Adventure Club promotes outdoor recreation activities and involvement. We provide a self-governing structure for the social enrichment of students that create opportunities for the development of character and leadership skills within the interest of outdoor recreation. Members will develop, practice, and share the skills needed to act safely in the outdoors by learning through actual experience in situations that require good judgment, risk management, teamwork, safety, and accountability. As outdoor enthusiasts, the club will participate in various community service activities related to outdoor recreation as a way to contribute to the local community.
