An exploration into what hope really is, what hope actually means to and for your life and the lives of those around you, and the means by which you can fill yourself with the hope you desire and deserve.

We live in a world that often demands more of us with which we think we are capable. Our individual lives can be shattered by any number of sudden, unforeseen events. Consider the ways your life could instantly change through a catastrophic medical diagnosis, the loss of a job, a divorce, a major financial hit, and of course, a pandemic. The list is endless.

PRESENTER:

DEBORAH GOFORTH SONBERG,
AUTHOR | MOTIVATIONAL SPEAKER
NONPROFIT EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

In 2006 Deborah retired from a gratifying 29 year career as an educator to move to a fulltime speaking profession. Her passion for teaching was second only to her passion for the well being of her students. All children require that certain basic needs be met. Some needs, however, are less obvious. They are “hidden” needs. One of the most critical “hidden” needs is HOPE.

Though much of Deborah's past experience centered on kids, and especially at-risk youth, the needs she has discussed above are not limited to youth or students. She has come to recognize a very real fact: Hope is a critical requirement at any age. Two of our greatest enemies are doubt and discouragement.

Thirsting for Hope is a presentation created and presented by Deborah Goforth Sonberg, a 30-year retired teacher, administrator, author, motivational speaker, and Founder/Executive Director of Keepers of Hope Nonprofit Foundation. Her first book, Scars of Love, Tears of Hope, took readers into the world of at-risk youth. Now let her take you into her world of never-ending hope!
